“ This is my mom and as any typical girl you bump heads with the queen of the house. And she was the coolest mom and I was lucky to have her and it makes me feel better that my time will come to see her again and grief just lets us know she was a real person and she can't be erased and her legacy continues through me and her grandkids and the others to come. And I miss her so much and if she had it her way she would still be here. But the people who loved her the most will never let her name go. Mom, you are a warrior and I am your sweet peas. And it's never a goodbye I'll see you later.
